

<http://www.KSCBNews.net/news/index.cfm?nk=12114>

Kansas DMV Offices To Re-Open

Kansans who had to wait a week to conduct business at Department of Motor Vehicle offices can get back in line.

The offices will reopen across the state Tuesday, after being closed for a week while a new computer system was installed.

The Kansas Department of Revenue is asking for patience from residents, saying employees will need time to adapt to the new $4 million computer system.

The department says the new computer system will make filing paperwork more efficient and cost effective.

Associated Press