Tiger Woods: "I'm Deeply Sorry"

Tiger Woods has apologized for having affairs and says he is unsure when he will return to competitive golf.

"I was unfaithful. I had affairs. I cheated. What I did was not acceptable," said Woods, looking composed and speaking in a steady voice on Friday. His wife, Elin, was not obviously present.

As for coming back to the U.S. PGA Tour, Woods said: "I do plan to return to golf one day. I just don't know when that day will be. I don't rule out it will be this year."

Woods talked for more than 13 minutes from the clubhouse at the TPC Sawgrass, home of the U.S. PGA Tour. About 40 people were in the room, including his mother.

Woods said he was solely responsible for his actions and was in treatment for 45 days. He said he will return for more therapy. He also insisted there were no instances of domestic abuse in his marriage.

The world's No. 1 golfer had not talked in public since his traffic accident on Nov. 27 triggered shocking revelations about Woods' serial infidelity.
