Police in Ohio have arrested a former Kansas man in connection with bomb threats made at two Dodge City restaurants.

The 30-year-old former Dodge City resident was arrested Monday morning in Warrensville Heights, Ohio, on a Ford County warrant for aggravated criminal threat and two counts of criminal threat.

Dodge City police say bomb threats were made March 11 at a Kentucky Fried Chicken and Presto/Subway within 20 minutes of each other, but no devices were found.
